

The current health emergency has turned university education around.

Virtual campuses become the technical means of extension to the traditional university space.

Objective

Implementation of two evaluative activities in a virtual environment within a university master's degree: (i) interactive and (ii) traditional. Analysis and evaluation of the impact of such activities on different teaching indicators: the grades obtained, the percentage of participation, as well as the general, specific and transversal competences achieved.
